

CURTAIN RINGS ON WALLY REID

Screen Idol Wages Losing
Fight With Death

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19.—In the little Hollywood chapel where make-believe scenes of sorrow and death have been filmed times without number, hushed preparations were made today for the funeral of "Wally" Reid, screen idol, whose bright career was dramatically closed yesterday, when he lost a heroic fight to "come back" from the shadowy land of drugs.

Dies on Victory's Threshold
Two blocks away the great Los Angeles where Wally rose to fame was deserted and silent. Sunlight flickered on garish sets and massive scenes, the great glowing klieg lights stood silent and unlit, while on the top of filmfolk there was but one phrase:

"After must go!"
Dope must go! Of whispered rumors, after two years of the narcotic tenebres had claimed among actors, the climax—the death of Reid—closed the film colony to consecrate itself with amazing unanimity of spirit to drive out the menace to the industry.

Wife, Child, at Bedside
Reid died yesterday at a sanatorium where he was treated for the last month following a nervous breakdown. His wife, Dorothy Davenport, and their child, were at the bedside at the end.

Congestion of the lungs and kidneys, caused by his nervous breakdown, was given by physicians as the immediate cause of death which followed a sudden relapse after it appeared he might recover. The doctor said, however, that the star's general condition was made worse by the effects of drugs, which, according to his wife and mother-in-law, Wally ceased to use shortly before his breakdown sometime ago.

Funeral Saturday
The funeral probably will be held tomorrow when the ever-present camera which recorded Wally's rise to fame and fortune will as relentlessly film his tragic "fade out."

12-YEAR-OLD TAKES HIKE TO MEET NEFF

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 19.—"Are you Governor Neff?" Leo Hilber, 12, asked Secretary Withall at the secretary's office.

The secretary told him that he was not and that the governor was in conference at the time.

"Is there anything I can do for you?" Withall asked.

"No sir, I came all the way from Port Worth just to meet the governor."

Without hesitation the 12-year-old took him to the office of the executive and an impatient conference interrupted long enough for the young Texan to fulfill his desire and ambition to meet the governor.

'Jelly Bean' Bandit Is The Latest In Dallas

DALLAS, Texas, Jan. 19.—"Stick 'em up" demanded a would-be bandit with slick hair, well dressed and unmarked of Ed Ham, grocery store proprietor here.

When Ham took his time about doing it the "jelly-bean" bandit fired a shot at him and fled.

"A jelly-bean" job, he didn't have nerve to finish it. Obviously an amateur," was the statement of Sheriff Dan Harston, who investigated the case.

But Ham doesn't think it's funny. The bullet missed him by inches.

"Spirits" Moved Him, But Not to Tell All of the Truth

HOUSTON, Texas, Jan. 19.—"Do spirits tell me you're done lost some diamonds and they tell me if you can get me $100, day will lead me to a man in Loo-ann whose gotten?"

So speaks Sam, negro, alleged originator and medium to Mrs. J. B. McCosky here.

In one that the lady be sure it was her diamonds whereof he spoke, Sam described the jewels. The description was very similar to the stones that had been stolen from Mrs. McCosky.

Now, Sam says he did not take the diamonds and knows nothing of them other than what the spirits have told him.

"And further me—the spirits and gonna talk to me while I'm in jail house," Sam declared.

Authorities are still holding the black who they say is known as Sam—sometimes Cassman, other times Sam Keyes, now and then as Sam Covert, and more often as just plain Sam.

In hopes that the spirits will move him to tell more about the diamonds.

They also believe Sam can tell of other missing articles, if he is just given plenty of time to think.

NEFF DEMANDS 5 PCT. OIL TAX

Says State Gets Little Revenue From Industry

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 19.—Governor Neff today sent to the legislature a special message on the subject of taxation.
Recommendation is made for the widening and strengthening of the gross receipts tax law, the governor declaring there are many activities involving earnings upon capital far in excess of the value of their physical properties.

Seeks 5 Per Cent

The governor would have the oil companies to contribute at least five per cent of its volume to the upbuilding of the state. He called attention to the fact that Texas is producing 10,000,000 barrels of oil a month, and "we get practically no revenue from it. Under our law, the big oil companies that build the expensive filling stations on the street corners across the state, pay little or no taxes on the oil commodities handled by them at these filling stations; while the little fellow who owns no oil wells or refineries is forced to pay a two per cent gross tax. A result of this law passed in the interest of the big oil companies is the 'one house' operator is squeezed out of business, and the filling stations owned by the big concerns control the market at the oil filling stations of Texas. A law that permits a thing of this kind is fundamentally wrong."

Suggestion is made that the pipeline companies be placed under the intangible asset law, and in this manner their income may be capitalized and a fair valuation for taxing purposes reached.

The inheritance tax law should be withdrawn, the governor suggests. Its scope should be widened and its administration placed under state law.

Under inheritance law, property drawn and administered the governor states that taxes would be recouped from this source at the present time far in excess of $1,000,000 per annum.

Separation of state and county taxes is recommended.

In conclusion Governor Neff said: "Let us remove our internal stumbling blocks, rewrite the tax laws fix a standard of valuation, make every dollar's worth of property and every dollar's worth of income pay its rightful tribute to the state government. Then our tax burdens equally borne, will be light on all and we will have money enough to build in this state a civilization worthy of our race, rich and romantic history."

ATHENS, Texas, Jan. 19.—More than 300 "cotton tails" were killed in one week during a campaign to rid this section of the pests.

DRIVER HUMS TUNE WHILE CARGO COOKS

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19.—Twelfth street a light delivery truck, chugging merrily on its way, piled high with assorted pig and sheep carcasses.

Tongues of flame curled up past the driver's cab.

"It's a hot time in the old town," hummed the carefree pilot, as he skillfully dodged pedestrians.

"Hey, you!" someone yelled, "Your truck is afire!"

"What?" demanded the truck driver.

A bit of flame leaped about the side of the vehicle.

A hurried call was sent for the fire engines. Meanwhile the meat was turning a beautiful brown. Lamb chops, jammed morris away, and sides of bacon began to crisp enticingly. Then came the fire outfit and extinguished the blaze.

"Well done!" said the fire captain to his men.

"Well done!" said the truck driver, surveying the signed cargo.

ENGLISH STUDY IS CHILD'S NEED

Power Tells Lions. Hundreds Never Hear It at Home

Do you know there are hundreds of children in Port Arthur whose fathers, grand fathers, and great grand fathers were born within 100 miles of this city, who never hear English spoken at home?

Leonard Power, principal of Franklin school, told members of the Lions Club today that there are hundreds of such children in Port Arthur, and that the problem is a hard one for the schools to handle.

"Despite this situation, illiteracy in Port Arthur is less than five per cent," Power told the Lions at their noon luncheon at the Plaza hotel. The schools here are the only ones in Texas, with one other exception, where the same standards for high school and lower grade teachers is required, he said.

Forty per cent of the so-called "slow students" are such because of physical disabilities. Power declared that the problem is a hard one for the schools to handle.

Harry K. Banker, president of the Chamber of Commerce and Shipping, presented the $30,000 budget of the organization to the Lions today, and asked their co-operation in raising this amount. Banker declared he is optimistic over the prospect of reaching the goal.

Accepting the resignation of Ed Edman as representative of the Lions Club on the Social Service-Welfare council, J. L. Dunn, president of the Lions Club, appointed E. S. Carter to fill the vacancy.

The ten other conventions will be divided between five cities as follows: Fort Worth, 4; San Antonio, 2; Brownwood, 2; and Waco and Houston 1 each.

WOMEN HOLD UP DANCING THROUG

Get $50,000 Loot From 250 Roadhouse Patrons

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 19.—The amazing success of outlaws in recent years was perpetuated early Sunday morning by six masked auto mobile bandits who held up a fashionable Bay City dancing throng of 250 in the Pergola road house in the outskirts of Oakland, robbed them of jewels and money valued by the police at $50,000 and escaped without pursuit or leaving a crew.

Real two-gun men they were, for they worked with a big revolver in each hand as they herded the 250 dancers and twenty-five employees about the huge dance floor. No music director could have supplied more thrills from fervid imagination than this bandit leader (produced from the instant that he called the throng to attention by firing three bullets into the ceiling.

The names of the guests read like pages from the social registers of Bay City and environs. University of California students were well represented and some of the best known business men of San Francisco were present.

NOT COLD, JUST THINKS HE IS, SAYS LANDLADY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—An suggestion with the aid of a thermometer and a cartoonist's observations on the effect of gazing into the mercury-filled crystal formed the basis of the answer to a complaint filed with the District of Columbia rent commission.

Edwin H. Milstead complained his apartment was not adequately heated. Miss Susan A. Giffin replied that Mr. Milstead's discomfort was due, not to failure on her part to provide heat, but to "the mental condition of complainant and the auto-suggestions arising from a constant study of the thermometer and thermometer and the regulation of his perspiration or gooseflesh according to its dictate."

Miss Giffin filed with her reply a copy of a cartoon depicting a woman who was comfortable until she looked at the thermometer and learned that instead of the anticipated 70 degrees, it registered a temperature of 65.

Impoverished Folk Not Wanted in Tahiti

PAPEETE, Tahiti, Jan. 19.—The welcome sign is not found on the door-mat of this island for the white man who has insufficient income to support himself notwithstanding certain representations to the contrary, according to several narratives emanating from this island. The narrative cannot and will not support a derogatory white man merely for the pleasure of his company.

During the last two or three years a number of white men have arrived here, believing the natives would support them. Recently there were many wandering along the beach, destitute, in the hope that some passing ship would allow them to work their way home or to some other clime. The average white man cannot make a living from a small patch of ground because he is unable to endure labor under the tropical sun. There is no available employment on the island for white men and the economic conditions in the island are at a low ebb.

Legislative Side Lights

BY HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
News Staff Correspondent at The 38th Legislature

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 19.—William Gibbs McAdoo has been invited to address the Texas legislature. This is significant in itself. The resolution was introduced by Representative Davenport of San Antonio, San Antonio is the home of Marshall Hicks and Frank C. Davis. They were delegates at large to the San Francisco convention and voted for McAdoo on every ballot. National Committeeman Thomas V. Love two years ago had charge of the McAdoo interests in Texas. Mr. Love has been in the last since early November, but his friends say he hopes to see McAdoo the presidential standard bearer of the democratic party two years hence. The first layman to address the senate of Texas after organization was former Governor James E. Ferguson. The first layman to address the House was former Congressman Thomas H. Ball.

Still Interested
Ball was ambitious in years gone by to be governor of the state. He lost. He attended the San Francisco convention as a delegate at large. He is out of actual politics now. He said to the writer:

"I have retired from the game, but I am interested in what the boys are doing or may do in the future." Hon. Cullen T. Thomas attended the inauguration. He was a delegate at large to the San Francisco convention and his heart continues to be for McAdoo. Although he was defeated for the senate, his friends say he is not out of actual politics and will continue to play the game until he is United States senator or governor. Mr. McAdoo is certain to accept the invitation to come to Texas and address the lawmakers and the wise ones among his former backers say that there will be a determined campaign in the coming presidential campaign to instruct for the former secretary of the treasury, and to push his cause along in other states.

There are a few Indiana boomers in Texas. They want Senator Samuel A. Harkins for president and Governor John M. Parker of Louisiana for vice president. McAdoo was born in Georgia, he married a white in Tennessee, he made history in New York, and now he is a citizen of California. It may be very early in the game but his friends are playing it. These are the surface signs in Texas.

Metcalfe Looking On
Former Representative Charles E. Metcalfe of Tom Green is here, not lobbying or playing politics. He is very greatly interested in the efforts of the Honorable Lynch Davidson to save the Orient. Metcalfe was accompanied by his son, P. B. Metcalfe. They are ranchmen and interested in the production of blooded stock. Cowboy W. J. Carson is their representative. Metcalfe was a range rider in the long ago, and Carson has broken many bronchos and conquered many outlaws in his time. Metcalfe says all the people of the West are hopeful that the Orient will be saved and that through the efforts of Davidson, one of the big systems will take the distressed property over.

Richard L. Winfree of Dallas is here. He is representing the hotel interests of Texas. Hotel proprietors are often victimized by butch cheek individuals. They are often victimized by other members of the credulous family. There have been several bills introduced which have interested those who are engaged in the industry. The long sheet artist has not come to the surface in the legislature, in either branch. Winfree has filled many offices in his time, since he came from Kentucky to Texas more than thirty years ago to get acquainted with the people and their habits. He has been a sheriff, chief of police, police commissioner, and chairman of the penitentiary board, but quit the game after the blue ridge farm row. He knows as much as any other man under the southwestern sky, but admits that politics is a losing game and that office holding is about the meanest sport in the world.

Yes, Cockrell, Too
Mayor E. R. Cockrell of Fort Worth is here, watching the public utilities bill and other legislation. Two years ago Cockrell defeated Big Bill Davis for the office of mayor of Fort Worth. He had been a professor of law and addicted to the making of lay sermons. Big Bill was defeated by 2,500 majority. He was a cowboy in his youth. He represented the old order of things. He could not see the handwriting on the wall, and when Davis went down, the politicians who had controlled the city of Ft. Worth for a quarter of a century went down with him.

Now Cockrell is a democratic nominee for reelection and all this demonstrates that a lay preacher and professor of law who believes in the City Beautiful and the life progressive, may be the boss of what was once known as the wildest cow town in all Texas. If this isn't evolution, what is it?

Former State Senator H. D. McDonald visited the big dome and paid his respects to the law makers and other friends. For years he was known as one of the great lawyers and democratic leaders of Texas. Paris was his home in those days. Overwork almost broke him down, and his physician said that he only had a brief tenure on life. He moved to Corpus Christi and there he has resided for ten or more years. He is the picture of health, he is as active as the most active of the lawyers and politicians, and yet the physicians doomed him to an early grave in the not far distant past. This shows that a physician may be a very wise man, but doesn't know it all.

THERE'S MONEY IN WASTE PAPER

That the economy of reworking waste paper is being realized to a greater extent as time advances is indicated by the fact that during the year 1922 United States paper mill interests spent more than $50,000,000 for waste paper. This amount of money shows an increase of $20,000,000 over the sum expended for waste paper during the previous year. Here is real progress, indeed.

This saving of $50,000,000 means that money was actually picked up from waste bins, ash cans and from the gutters of public highways. Had this vast quantity of waste paper been burned or destroyed in other ways it would have meant the loss of the big sum mentioned. In truth it would have meant a far greater loss than that, as it would have caused the further depletion of American forests, a loss which never could be regained.

Some idea of the damage that has been spared the American forests may be understood from the figures representing the consumption of waste paper by the United States paper mills during the year 1922. These figures are 1,963,000 tons, or 3,926,000 pounds! This waste paper was reconverted into various kinds of new paper and board. The old magazines were turned into book papers; the old newspapers and mixed papers were made over into pulp boards of the kinds used for the manufacture of paper boxes.

Although great savings have already been accomplished by the collection and reworking of waste paper, it is a startling fact that every year millions of dollars worth of waste paper is being destroyed by the people in general. Untold tons of magazines, newspapers, old wrapping paper, etc., are cast into fires or thrown into the streets. The people who cause this loss little realize that they are inflicting a serious injury to the forests, as many noble trees will have to be cut down to replace that loss.—The Nation's Business.

ARE YOU SURE?

A woman with two stomachs is discovered by the X-ray in Allentown, Pa. She is Miss Annie Moore. The two stomachs, each almost normal in size, are joined together by Dr. Englehart.

That's something you never heard of before—probably never will again. For nature is great on standardization. While she makes our faces so different that no two are exactly alike in the whole world, we're all about the same when the surgeon begins exploring our interiors.

Somebody said something about the exception proving the rule.

You read about Miss Moore of the two stomachs, and say to yourself, "Thank goodness, I have only one stomach. Enough indignation as it is, without having two."

How do you know you have a stomach at all? Did you ever see it?

Of course not. You take it for granted that you have a stomach. Every human that's ever been opened has been found to have one, so you accept that as satisfactory evidence.

Maybe you have two stomachs, maybe none. There's always the exception to the general and no telling what it'll be.

At least nine-tenths of what we think we know is hearsay—second-hand knowledge. You believe that there's a country, China. But were you ever there to find out for yourself?

The only proof some of our soldiers had, that they were in Europe, was the word of their officers. Without accepting second-hand proof, for all they knew they might have been in Africa.

A favorite line of Big Talk makes much of the advisability of careful investigation—such as "Don't believe it unless you see it with your own eyes."

Alas, there's so much to be seen, and life's so short, that we have to accept rumors as authentic when a sufficient number of persons verify the rumors.

In the last analysis, how do you know that the stuff you use to run your auto is gasoline instead of water with a peculiar odor? Did you ever analyze it to make certain? Even if you tried, how can you be certain that the method is correct?

With most knowledge based on hearsay evidence—rumor—small wonder that the world is cluttered with misinformation. Back of this is a definite peril: Certain groups are forever conspiring to make the public accept faked hearsay as established fact.

FESS AND THE BLOC

Senator-elect Simon Fess of Ohio is sweeping in his condemnation of congressional blocs and all forms of legislative blocs. This Buckeye statesman is late in the day with his criticism. He was elected by the railway employees bloc. Sixteen organizations of railway workers voted for Fess for senator and defeated a democrat who would not accept their legislative program. A farm bloc in Ohio also assisted in the election of Fess.

Senator Pomerene declared in his campaign that, if elected, he would not be dictated to by class interests or aggressive minorities of voters. This lead to his defeat.

Fess is a republican. He defeated Pomerene by a majority of 50,000 and yet the democrats of Ohio elected their governor by a majority of 100,000. That's given to Fess by republicans. The blocs voted for a democrat for governor.

There are legislative blocs everywhere. They can be found in Texas. Some day they may elect a party government.

Harrison is in the state of Arkansas. There is a committee of one thousand running the place. A railroad strike is lynched and scores of former employees of the railway were banished. The One-Man Woman DOES HE HOLD THE KEY

By Ruth Agnes Eoling

BEGIN HERE TODAY

KATE WARD, widow of DAN WARD, living with her father, JUSTIN PARSONS, has a visitor. "GIVEN UP ON ME," she says. "Dan was the father of her child, DOROTHY. Near their home, a few nights later, Kate and her father pick up a man, unconscious victim of an auto crash. In their cottage he recovers and gives his name as JAMES LATHAM. Motoring with Kate, shortly afterward, he declares his love for her, but Kate, still devoted to Dan's memory, despite Albee's story, does not know what to say. "Give me time to think," she cries.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

Latham's hand closed over Kate's. Suddenly she had that feeling of youth again. It seemed that she was years younger than he. And she wanted to talk. She had never talked to anyone of Dan. She wanted to now. "You know, Jimmy," she said, "there has been one man for me—I cared so much for him that I thought I never could care again. It seemed to me that life had done enough for me in just giving me his love for the little while that I had it, asked Latham.

"It's dead," Kate almost whispered the words.

"And if that love were still so real a thing to you," Latham was speaking slowly, "you would not speak of it as having had it for only a little while—you would say it had been yours for ever." But as Kate seemed younger and more childlike, so Latham became older in experience and stronger. He became master of the situation.

Kate was hurt, as he knew she would be.

"Forgive me—perhaps I was too brutal," he said, and then added, "but it is true."

The remainder of the journey was made in silence. It was not until the roadster was turning into the drive beside Justin Parsons' little cottage that James Latham spoke again.

"Lady Fair," he said, "what was the name of that man you loved so much?"

"Dan Ward," Kate replied without looking at him.

"You knew him?" half curiously, "Yes—I knew him."

And that was all.

The shadow of the trees hid Kate's look of surprise and curiosity. She asked no question. Her hand rested lightly for a second in Latham's as she said "Good night" to him. Her voice was cold and calm. It gave no hint of turmoil within.

Alone, however, she thought bitterly. It gave her no peace. This strange youth had known Dan. And he had asked her to call him Jimmy. Just as the voice had said:

Did he somehow hold the key to the whole situation? Had his life crossed somewhere with that of Albee?

Kate wished suddenly that she had told him of the "voice" and its foolish prophecies.

And she wished, weirdly, that she could escape the whole troublesome thing, the haunting thought of Albee and Dorothy, the aching loneliness and the mystery.

Owing to the Shakespeare now in vogue in New York, offers have come to James J. Corbett to play Romeo. Might be a good idea, who knows? Jack Johnson is rehearsing his version of Othello and those who have attended say it will be great. "It made me laugh," said Jimmy Johnston, "and it's gonna make others laugh. Not all in cash, of course. The figure includes surrendered merchant ships, deliveries of coal and dyas, value of lost colonies, restored property, etc. The French have a different way of keeping books.

NO ESCAPE

BY BERTON BIKALOV

Day by day I'm gettin' better I'm breaking every fetter

Of the maladies that bothered me of yore!

I who once was going blooze, read the book by Doctor Coze.

And I'll never be unhealthy any more!

I'm a faithful fond believer: I have cured the scarlet fever

And the measles and the whooping cough and pin.

And still other—I won't list 'em—'em—the simple Coze system.

Which has filled me full of vigor and of zip.

But, although my many illnesses have fled,

I have got that Coze-jingle in my head:

"Day by day, in every way, Every way and day by day"

(Oh, I know it every syllable and letter).

"Day by day, in every way, Every way, every way,

I am getting better better, I am getting better, better!"

Oh, my head is going balmy, I shall need a gland to calm me

If that Coze stuff keeps running in my brain.

When I'm working, playing, sleeping, to my cerebrum comes creeping

That eternal inescapable refrain, I am Doctor Coze's debtor that my health is better, better,

But my coze's going cuckoo mighty soon!

All my cerebrations mingle with that everlasting jingle

Of the Coze stuff that cozeing is person:

"Day by day, in every way, Every way and day by day"

(Oh, I know it every syllable and letter).

"Day by day, in every way, Every way, every way,

I am getting better better, I am getting better, better!"

YOU AND I

SKYWARD

For Sale: The Equitable Building in New York City, world's largest (not tallest) office building. If you want to buy it, the price is only 40 million dollars. The term that much, you would have to work 40,000 years at a salary of $1000 year.

A rumor has been floating around that Bohely, the "Moleman Peter" of magazine, contemplates buying the Equitable. His agents deny the rumor. The denial should have an effect on the stock market. Thousands of small stock gamblers are gullible enough to reason that purchase by Bohely would mean that he had discovered oil under the Equitable and was about to tear the building down and start drilling. At that, it would be as logical as the average market "tip." The safest way is to flip a coin.

AUTON

Two picked teams, of eight men each, race to see which can assemble a Dodge car the faster. The winner puts the car—motor, top and all—together in less than 15 minutes. You don't find that kind of speed in any country except America, even in contests.

More important auto trade news is Ford's decision to build a $10,000,000 plant in St. Paul, to employ 15,000 men. It will save freight, bring his product closer to the big sales field of the northwest.

This is a straw showing the way the wind blows. In the next few years you'll see many other industries scatter. It will be compulsory readjustment to the growing problem, transportation.

LOSS

Before the war, when the German mark was worth about 24 cents, the Hamburg-American and North German Lloyd steamship lines sold $22,500,000 worth of bond funds. These bonds have been called for redemption and are now being sold off April 1.

Alas, they'll be paid off according to shrunken value of the mark. Investors will get back about $10,000 for their investment of $22,500,000. Some American promoters will wish their heads admirably. Luckily, most of these bonds are held in Europe.

FABULOUS

Jackie Coogan, according to his press agents, is to have a steady income of $150,000 a year. Pretty good for a lad of eight.

The case is an exception to the so-called platitudes that tell us success comes only by hard work, thrift, and perseverance. However, it's a true rule that still holds good for most of us. Exceptions prove the rule that there are very few Jackie Coogans.

For him our selling newspapers or delivering parcels, and he'd not make any more than other boys.

Moral: Money success depends more on the line of work you follow than on the way you do the work. Follow a profitable road. It's as easy to earn $100 in some industries as $1 in others.

DRUNK

A man, staggering with intoxication, is arrested in Athens, Ohio. He is arrested instantly when he learns he's the victim of a joke, having drunk very mild beer under the impression it was strong.

His imagination, not alcohol, made him intoxicated. He got drunk because he believed that he would.

If Coze wants to make a million overnight, he should turn his batteries on the thirsty and show them how to get a kick out of near beer.

THE MISTAKES OF THE KAISER

By RENE VIVIANI

Premier of France When the War Broke Out
Copyright, 1922, BY MCLU RE NEWSPAPER SYNDICATE.
LAST EFFORTS FOR PEACE

On the evening of July 29th, in full day, when war was declared against Russia, Sir Edward Grey, Premier of Great Britain, sent seventeen dispatches to all the foreign offices, urging an entente among the various nations. Answer: Germany and Austria start the war.

What is there to be added to the above? What Russia did? Very well. Let us see what were the acts of the Russian government:

1. After coming to agreement with Sir Edward Grey and France, and despite the excited Slavie sentiments of the Russians and the menace to Russia, the Russian government counselled Serbia to seek conciliation and from the very first day advised that she send an answer to the Austrian demands such as would be satisfactory to Austria.

2. On July 29th, after having asked for extension of the time allowed Serbia (as France did) the Russian government asked the Austrian ambassador at St. Petersburg to be allowed to talk directly to it. (Orange Book, 38-45 et sequ.)

3. The Russian government refuses to be discouraged and supports the Grey proposal (Orange Book, 32-39).

4. In case of non-acceptance of the proposal of having a private talk between Russia and Austria, Russia states that she awaits proposals from the powers. (Blue Book, 55-78 et sequ.)

5. Following a request from the King of Serbia, the Czar, on July 27, advised him to be calm.

6. On July 30, M. Sazanoff dictates to Count Pourtales, German ambassador at St. Petersburg, a compromise formula and binds itself to suspend defensive measures. (Orange Book, 60). Answer: Herr von Jagow refuses to transmit this formula to Austria.

7. M. Sazanoff even goes so far as to negotiate with Grey and ourselves in the occupation of Serbia by Austrian troops, adopting a policy of waiting (Orange Book, 67).

8. On August 1st, the said government agreed to enter into discussion with Austria and telegraph to that effect to London (Blue Book, 110 et sequ.).

9. On August 1st, after having received Germany's declaration of war, the Russian government again asks to enter into negotiations, provided that Russian territory be respected, adding that Russia will not attack (Blue Book, 139).

10. On that same day, Russia declares that she will take no aggressive step, so long as discussions with Austria, just resumed, shall continue (White Book, 12-15 et sequ.).

There, then, is what Russia did. And France?

France, in so far as she did not like the initiative herself, adhered to and sent to the line of action adopted at the initiative of England and Russia.

Before throwing light on certain of her acts, I wish to call attention to the fact that their principal witness, she who watched them close at hand—Herr von Schoen, German ambassador at Paris—has paid them striking homage in his dispatches (see the Memoirs of Herr von Schoen). On a number of occasions he brought to the knowledge of his government France's efforts in the direction of peace.

And for the said efforts, here they are:

1. As far back as July 21, 1914, at one o'clock in the morning I telegraphed while on the way from Cronstadt to Stockholm, to the French ministry of foreign affairs, asking that it seek, through our ambassador to Austria, to calm down Austria and suggest to England that nation be attempted by the four nations in order that the dispute might be arranged peacefully. (Yellow Book, No. 23.)

2. France supports Sir Edward Grey's proposal.

3. (Yellow Book, No. 29) The French government supports the request for extension of the time allowed Serbia.

4. It renews its request on July 27th (Yellow Book, No. 61).

5. Same request, July 27th (Yellow Book, No. 62).

6. On July 29th (No. 97) France urgently asks at London that Sir Edward Grey renew the proposal of mediation by the four nations, in whatever form he may deem best.

7. On July 30th (No. 101) the French government suggests to Russia, that, if she adopts defensive measures against mobilization already carried out by Austria, she give Germany "no excuse for mediation."

8. On July 30th, a telegram is sent to England to inform the latter that the French government has just given the order to have the French troops drawn back from the frontier a distance of ten kilometers.

9. On July 31 (No. 112) the French government urges all ambassadors to support the English proposal of mediation by the four nations.

10. August 1st, 1914. (No. 122) France renews her declaration that she will respect Belgian neutrality, and most concise form, by making what more could be done? And why did all this fail? We shall answer this question in the clearest and most concise form, by making a series of summaries based on all the documents in the case, which will show, date by date, day by day, the principal burdens of responsibility that fall upon Germany, since it is very difficult to see and assemble all in this frightful hodge-podge, when belated truths have taken the place of the original falsifications.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS BUSTER BEAR'S SPEECH

By Olive Roberts Burton

Everybody in Dreamland sat around in a circle.
It was a new kind of School Noddy as having, where everybody could say as much as he liked and whatever he liked.
"Next," called Nancy. "Will Buster Brown Bear please recite?"
Instantly there was a screech.
"Buster Bear here," shrieked Jack Jumping Mouse, starting to jump away, forgetting that he was now as big as a kangaroo.
"Buster Bear," gasped Phil Frog, "Buster Bear," shouted Ben Bunny and Wally Woodchuck and everybody.
"Nancy laughed. 'Wait till you see him,'" she said.
Just then Buster himself waddled around a corner, a nice good-natured stuffed Teddy Bear with shoe button eyes and yarn toe-mills.
"Oh!" said Jack Mouse in a relieved voice.
"Oh!" said Mike Mole.
"Oh!" said everybody. "Oh! Oh! Oh!" And they all sat down again.
"Will you please recite," said Nancy.

PUFF PASTE

BY BERTMA E. SHAPLEIGH
OF COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY

For puff pastries to be filled with creamed meat, fish or vegetables, for the top of a meat pie or for small pastries, puff paste is needed.
Following is a good recipe:
1-2 pound (1 cup) butter,
1-2 pound (2 cups) flour,
1-2 teaspoon salt,
Yolk 1 egg,
1 tablespoon lemon juice,
1 egg water to moisten.
Work the butter under the water until it is like a nut, not so hard to be hard to handle. Work a small piece into flour and salt. Add lemon juice and slightly beaten egg yolk to flour, making a little hole in center, and into this pour a small amount of water. Then, with a knife, gradually make a ball of dough. As needed, add water until all the flour has been moistened and the large dough ball can be lifted from the bowl. On a well-floured cloth, marble or board, knead until smooth, cover and let stand two minutes. With a well-floured rolling pin pat and roll to 1/8 inch thick. In center, place the butter, fold paste's sides and ends until butter is enclosed, pat, until quite a bit thinner, being careful butter does not come through the dough or the dough stick to the board; roll to 1/8 inch thick and fold three folds. Chill and repeat this process seven times.
It is then ready to use.

Civic Club Rose Sale to Be Held Monday Morning

A rose sale will be held Monday morning in the lobby of the Strand Theater under the auspices of the Civic Club. The proceeds of the sale will go toward the improvement of the Civic Club Park, now being surveyed by the city.
The same plants will be sold as those at the December sale, which proved such a success. Because of the high quality of the plants the Civic Club was urged to hold another sale. Monday morning's sale will begin at 9:30 o'clock.

HARDING IMPROVING BUT STAYS IN ROOM

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—President Harding, while showing gradual improvement from his attack of grippe, was still confined to his room today at the order of his personal physician, Dr. Sawyer.
On account of the president's illness the usual cabinet meeting was called off today. Two other members of the cabinet, Secretary of Labor Davis, and Postmaster General Work, who are at home ill, would not have been able to attend the meeting.

Purchaser and Guests Lose Lives in Mystery

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—After drinking of some mysterious concoction, three men fell dead in a saloon in Jersey City.
The proprietor, Joseph Boras, is among the dead. The other two were John Buzza and Joseph Janofski.
Boras had purchased the saloon, which is in a Polish settlement, only a week ago. When Buzza and Janofski asked for drinks Sunday, Boras reached beneath the bar and brought out a brown liquid. He joined the two in the drinking.
A few minutes later one of the men cried out:
"What was in that drink—I'm burning up!" He toppled over.
Before the others could answer they also fell and died.
Autopsies are being conducted to determine the ingredients of the drink. A quantity of liquor in the saloon was seized for analysis.

Skeletons of 3 Killed In Indian Massacre 50 Years Ago Found

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 19.—A half-century tale of the massacre of a family of three by Canadian Indians more than a half a century ago, when they roamed the plains of Texas, and fought against the invasion of the white man, was recalled today, following discovery of skeletons of three humans in a gravel pit near here.
The skeletons were lying close together, as if thrown into one grave. Physicians are of the opinion that one of the skulls was that of a woman.

France Has 600,000 Men Ready in Event of War With Germany

ARMY FORCE TOTALS 500,000

Skirmish Organization Could Be Quickly Enlarged

(Copyright, 1922, by the United Press Association.)

LOSDON, Jan. 19.—France has 600,000 men under arms and ready to go into action in event of war with Germany, growing out of the Ruhr invasion.

Germany, while its nominal army total is less than 100,000, has five times that many in actual training and prepared to become soldiers on short notice. It would break out, according to information given out by French authorities in Paris.

These statistics are interesting in view of the fact that Germany warned France and Belgium that an advance beyond the confines of the neutral zone might result in a collision with German troops.

A Berlin dispatch gave the following information concerning the German army:

It consists of 21 infantry, 18 cavalry and seven artillery regiments. Its total strength is under 100,000 permitted by the Versailles treaty. The country is divided into six military districts of which Muenster is the headquarters.

The French army, according to Paris dispatches quoting official sources, totals 600,000 men distributed all over France. Forty-five to fifty thousand are engaged in the occupation of the Ruhr and 75,000 are stationed in the occupied areas in the Rhineland.

Have U. S. "Cafre" Plan

It was pointed out that while Germany's Reichwehr is limited to 100,000, practically all are non-commissioned officers, enlisted for twelve years terms and capable of forming the framework of a much larger army. Germany could put several full divisions in the field on very short notice. Although, the Versailles treaty does not allow Germany any heavy artillery and military aviation, some heavy guns are placed on the Russian frontier and her commercial airplanes could easily be converted and used for scouting.

150,000 Safety Police.

Added to the regular soldiers are 150,000 safety police, which is a military as well as a police organization. One hundred thousand of these are armed with a rifle to every three men, and every one has a dagger and a revolver. The remaining 50,000 are divided among the regular municipal police organization. The safety police is constituted of former regular officers and none command officers, and capable of quick transformation into a second Reichwehr. This is Germany's potential standing.

army to 250,000. In addition, there are 150,000 technical specialists organized by regions and recruited by voluntary enlistment to assure non-interrupted of public service in times of strikes and disorders. They are under command of Reichwehr officers. Veterans society, phone guards and sporting and marksmanship organizations "for military preparation" exist in large numbers.

Taking all these together, the French roughly compute that the total manpower of Germany, which could speedily be armed in event of war is more than half a million.

Phone Calls Ask City To Move Bovines Off Campus at Webster

"Hello, Tass the city? Well, I'd like to see you move the cows off Webster school grounds."

Two or three telephone calls like this one yesterday stirred the city commission into an investigation of cows grazing on the campus.

Poundmaster Allen was asked by Commissioner Poteet why he had allowed the cows to graze on the school property.

Mr. Allen explained to the commission that it was his understanding that he had no jurisdiction over what happens on school property. He said he had been told as much.

Mr. Poteet said that he was sure if Mr. Allen would take the matter up with Supt. Sims that something would be done about having the cows removed.

Irwin Gets Close Shave On Way to State Pen

DALLAS, Texas, Jan. 19.—T. K. Irwin, Dallas member of the Texas legislature, had a "close shave" while on a visit to the State prison farm recently, according to his own story.

Irwin was on an inspection trip and was badly in need of a shave. The Farm Superintendent told him that he would provide the legislator with the necessary tonsorial accommodations.

Irwin was turned over to a hunky negro with a bucket of water, a razor and a bar of soap.

While the operation was in progress, Irwin, thinking he might be able to learn something about the prisoner's life, started a series of questions.

"How long are you in for?" asked Irwin of his black barber.

"Life," was the laconic reply.

"What for?" ventured Irwin.

"Murder," said the negro, volunteering no more information than he was asked for.

"How did you happen to kill a man?" questioned Irwin again.

"Cut his throat with a razor,"

"On looking up the record of the prisoner, Irwin found the statements to be true.

The steamer Resolute, flying the flag of the Panama Republic, arrived at Havana Jan. 12, that city being on her itinerary in a cruise around the world. There is considerable more of a story connected with the incident than merely that the Resolute arrived at Havana. The vessel is one of the largest passenger ships that ever flew the United States flag and is now flying the Panama flag by reason of the Volstead law. When it was found that the Resolute could not fill her steamers on a cruise around the world under the dry law the company took out Panama registry with a full passenger list, and stocked up with liquor at the first port where wet goods could be had.

HAS SYSTEM TO AID HOME FOOD

Proposes to Teach Texas to Feed Herself

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Jan. 19.—A system of canning and preserving plants for the utilization of Texas grown products, is being planned by Judge D. E. Chapin, former resident of Hidalgo county and at one time member of the Texas legislature from that county.

Using the trade name of "Texas Food Packers" with offices at Houston and Fort Worth and canning plants, from Brownsville to the Red River, it is proposed to teach Texas to "feed herself" and at the same time increase the profits of the producers.

The item of containers is considered the most expensive in the cost of operation, and Chapin claims that the proper seal for making glass can be found here in Texas.

He believes that the enterprise "will bring more money into the state and prevent more from going out than has ever been made in oil or gas."

Elks Theater, Leases Offer Heavy Loss. The Elks Theater tonight opening production for the season has been cancelled along with the "Robin Hood" which was to be shown on Sunday night. The theatre, following the destruction of the morning fire Wednesday, is now condemned until an investigation is made of the extent of damage. The doors are jammed tight and the front and rear "dramaphones" are stuck about the building which is reported off. It is understood that if the building is unfit for use, which is believed to be its condition, it will cost of approximately $30,000 to the owners. The leases also suffered damage to the renovation which was under way for some time, preparatory to the opening of the new season.

Temperature Alone Opens Up Flowers

Temperature Alone Opens Up Flowers. The common belief that the opening and closing of flowers is influenced by sunlight is not unfounded in a note read at a meeting held recently of the Academy of Science. The influence of moisture in the air is so imperative. The movements of petals depend almost entirely on the temperature. The century rose, for instance, which usually opens about 11 a. m. on a fine day, is closed if kept in cold air, but is at any hour if placed in a room in a temperature of 65 degrees Fahrenheit.

Monkey Shines In Order When Fire Breaks Out In Zoo

Monkey Shines In Order When Fire Breaks Out In Zoo. AN ANTONIO, Texas, Jan. 19.—Key shiners were in order here in a fire broke out in the zoo. The fire started when an innocent under gave a monkey a match to play with. The monkey played with the match until he had set a pile of hay on fire. The blaze spread so fast that it was necessary to turn some of the animals loose. Bears, ant-eaters and monkeys were at large until the fire was extinguished. The bears and ant-eaters were returned to their cages with much difficulty but not so with the monkeys.

"WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE WOMEN?"

"WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE WOMEN?" From the very dawn of the human race, woman has intrigued and baffled the brain of mankind—from Mother Eve to Cleopatra, down through the ages to Dullbury, Mary Queen of Scots, and now our present day woman. This eternal battle of the sexes is the theme of Daniel Carson Goodman's powerful dramatic, prophetic play, "What's Wrong With the Women?" which opens a four-day engagement at the Peoples Theatre Monday.
"What's Wrong With the Women?" is not unlike to womanhood. It is in no sense a sermon or propaganda in behalf of mere man. But it reveals the modern woman in all her strength and weakness and shows by means of a tremendously dramatic human story how woman, in the present high-powered era of jazz and bootleggers, can best serve society. In the cast are such noted players as Wilton Lackaye, Rod La Touche, Barbara Castleman, Montague Love, Huntley Gordon, Julia Swayne Gordon, Constance Bonnett, Hedda Hopper and Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein.

how to put over the intimate touches and his stories breeze through with whimsical flourishes. The director has preserved the delicate charm and brought forth all the captivating humor which is interwoven into the action. There is no striving to create sensational episodes for the sake of adding drama. It conquers with its charm and whimsicality. Luxurious settings were provided for the story which reached the stage and had a successful engagement under the title of "The Imposter," before it was a picture. It deals with a girl up against it. A girl of gentle breeding, born and reared in luxury, until the death of her father and the settlement of his estate. The girl, with a keen sense of humor, makes the best of her plight and the following episodes make for Agnes Ayres one of the best screen vehicles in which she has starred. "A Daughter of Luxury" opens a three-day engagement at the Peoples Theatre Sunday.

"HUMAN HEARTS"

"HUMAN HEARTS" now playing at the Peoples Theatre. The story is based on the famous old drama of the stage by Hal Reid, deserves and is attaining the same great success that distinguished its stage predecessor. The story is built up without undue delay and contains a quality which leaves one with a wholesome respect for old-fashioned right-living people. The drama may be said to rest upon four pillars as clearly symbolized as those of the old Greek tragedies.

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 19.—Grace Lusk, school teacher, sentenced to 19 years imprisonment for the slaying of Mrs. David Roberts, as the result of a triangle love affair, was today conditionally pardoned by Governor John H. Blaine. The governor allowed the woman her freedom "as long as her conduct is compatible with good citizenship." The pardon was granted because of Miss Lusk's serious illness.

MANY STATES WOULD TIGHTEN UP DIVORCE, MARRIAGE LAWS

Texas Solon, Mrs. Willman of Dallas, Wants Domestic Relations Court to Handle Divorce and Family Row Suits

(Copyright 1923, by United Press.) Draconic tightening up of divorce and marriage laws is proposed in measures pending before a number of state legislatures, according to United Press dispatches today. When the legislatures get under way this month, there was a rush of bills to curb the divorce evil, abolish runaway marriages and erect safeguards around the institution of matrimony. Seemingly agreeing with Judge Ben E. Lindsey's recent statement that "marriage is a failure," legislators in these states are concentrating on making it harder to get married and harder to get "unmarried."

Reno, long a divorce mecca, will lose its drawing power and California will cease to be a goal for those seeking separation if bills now being prepared to go before these legislatures are passed. Following is a survey of the situation:

Texas: Mrs. Edith Willman, Dallas, only woman member of the legislature, wants to establish a court of domestic relations to handle divorce and other such suits. Two other divorce reform bills, however, have been killed in committee.

California: There is a bill pending to eliminate all grounds for divorce except adultery and conviction of a felony. Nevada: A bill is being prepared eliminating all "short term" and "technical residence" provisions of the existing law. This would make Nevada's code practically the same as that of other states, requesting six months residence before decree is possible, decrees not to become final for a year thereafter.

Indiana: Sixty days must elapse between filing a divorce suit and hearing the evidence, according to a bill pending in this state. Michigan: A bill providing the following regulations over marriage and divorce is to come before the legislature.

1—Marriage licenses must be procured 30 days before the ceremony.
2—Applicants must present health certificate.
3—Applicants for divorce must be residents of state for at least a year. Interlocutory decrees, preventing remarriage for a year after date of issue, will be granted. A senate bill would give children born out of wedlock equal rights with all others.

Missouri: Two divorces for any individual would be the limit under terms of a measure filed here. Missouri: Senator La Favor of the existing law. This would make Nevada's code practically the same as that of other states, requesting six months residence before decree is possible, decrees not to become final for a year thereafter.

THE THING ON THE HEARTH

"The first confirmatory evidence of the thing, Excellency, was the print of a woman's bare foot."

He was an immense creature. He sat in an upright chair that seemed to have been invented especially for him. The great bulk of him flowed out and filled the chair. It did not seem to be fat that enveloped him. It seemed rather to be some soft, tough fiber, like the pulpy mass making up the body of a dense sea thing. One got an impression of strength.

The country was before the open window; the clusters of cultivated slash on the sweep of velvet lawn extending to the great wall that inclosed the place, then the head of the river and beyond, the distant mountains, blue and mysterious, blending indistinctly into the sky. A soft sun, clouded with the haze of autumn, shone over it.

"You know how the faint moisture in the late foot will make an impression."

He paused as though there was some compelling force in the reflection. It was impossible to say, with accuracy, to what race the man belonged. He came from some queer blend of Eastern peoples. His body and the cast of his features were Mongolian, but one got always, before one had a feeling of the hot East, a feeling of the cold North. One felt that he had been slowly into our world of hard air and sun and of the vast, sweltering ooze of it.

He spoke English with a certain care in the selection of the words, but with ease.

It is necessary to try to understand this, because it explains the conception, everybody got of the creature, when they saw him in charge of Rodman. I am using precisely the descriptive words; he was exclusively in charge of Rodman, as a jinn in an Arabian tale might have been in charge of a king's son.

The creature was servile—with almost a groveling servility. But one saw that this servility resulted from something potent and subtle. One looked to see Rodman take Solomon's ring out of his waistcoat pocket.

I suppose there is no longer any doubt about the fact that Rodman was one of those gigantic human intelligences who sometimes appear in the world; and by their immense conceptions dwarf all human knowledge—a sort of mental monster that we feel nature has no right to produce. Lord Rayless Truxley said that Rodman was four generations in advance of the time; and Lord Rayless Truxley was beyond question, the greatest authority on synthetic chemistry in the world.

Rodman was rich and, everybody supposed, indolent; no one ever thought very much about him until he published his brochure on the scientific manufacture of precious stones. Then instantly everybody with any pretension to a knowledge of synthetic chemistry turned toward him.

The brochure startled the world. It proposed to adapt the luster and beauty of jewels to commercial uses—being content with crude imitation colors in our commercial glass, when we could quite as easily have the actual structure and the actual luster of the jewel in it. "We were painfully hunting over the earth, and in its bowels, for a few crystals and prettily-colored stones which we hoarded and treasured, when in a manufacturing laboratory we could easily produce them, more perfect than nature, and in unlimited quantity."

Now, if you want to understand what I am printing here about Rodman, you must think about this thing as a scientific possibility and not as a fantastic notion. Take, for example, Rodman's address before the Sorbonne, or his report to the International Congress of Science in Edinburgh, and you will begin to see what was a delegate to that congress, and the Marquise Giovanni, who was a delegate to that congress, and Pastreux, said that the only thing in the way of an actual practical realization of what Rodman outlined was the formulae. If Rodman could work out the formulae, jewel-stuff could be produced as cheaply as glass, and in any quantity—by the earload. Imagine it! sheet ruby, sheet emerald, all the beauty and luster of jewels in the windows of the corner drug-store!

And there is another thing that I want you to think about. Think about the immense destruction of value—not to us, so greatly, for our stocks of precious stones are not large; but the thing meant, practically, wiping out all the assembled wealth of Asia except the actual earth and its structures.

Put the thing some other way and consider it. Suppose we should suddenly discover that pure gold could be produced by treating common yellow clay with sulphuric acid, or that some genius should set up a machine on the border of the Sahara that received sand at one end and turned out sacker wheat at the other! What, then, would our hoarded gold be worth, or the wheat-lands of Australia, Canada, or our Northwest? The illustrations are fantastic. But the thing Rodman was after was a practical fact. He had it on the way. Giovanni and Lord Rayless Truxley were convinced that the man would work out the formulae. They tried, over their signatures, to prepare the world for it.

The whole of Asia was appalled. The rajahs of the native states in India prepared a memorial and sent it to the British government.

The thing came out after the most serious, incredible tragedy. I should not have written that final sentence. I want you to think, just now, about the great bulk of a man that sat in his big chair beyond me at the window.

It was like Rodman to turn up with an outlandish human creature attending him hand and foot. How the thing came about reads like a fable, a rease like the wildest; he that anybody ever put forward to explain a big yellow Oriental following one about.

But it was no lie. You could think up a lie to equal the actual thing that happened to Rodman. Take the way he died!

The thing began in India. Rodman had gone there to consult with the Marquise Giovanni concerning some molecular theory that was involved in his formulae. Giovanni was digging up a buried temple on the northern border of the Punjab. One night, in the explorer's tent, near the excavations, this inscrutable creature walked in on Rodman. No one knew how he got into the tent or where he came from.

Giovanni told about it. The tent flap simply opened, and the big Oriental appeared. He had something in his arm rolled up in a prayer-carpet. He gave an attention to Giovanni, but he saluted him like a coolie to the little American.

"Master," he said, "you were hard to find. I have looked over the world for you."

And he squatted down on the dirty floor by Rodman's camp stool.

The two men spent the remainder of the night looking at the present, that the creature brought Rodman in his prayer-carpet. They wanted to know where the Oriental got it, and that's how the story came out.

It was something, searsher seems our nearest English word to it—in the great Shan Monastery on the southeastern plateau of the Gobi. He was looking for Rodman because he had the hint—there was another word—that the two men could find no term in any modern language to translate; a little flame was the literal meaning.

The present was from the treasure-room of the monastery; the very carpet around it, Giovanni said, was worth twenty thousand lire. There was another thing that came out in the talk that Giovanni afterward recalled. Rodman was to accept the present and the man who brought it to him. The Oriental would protect him, in every way, in every direction, from things visible and invisible. He made quite a speech about it. But there was one thing from which he could not protect him.

The Oriental used a lot of his ancient words to explain, and he did not get it very clear. He seemed to mean that the creative forces of the spirit would not tolerate a division of worship with the creative forces of the body—the celibate notion in the monastic idea.

Giovanni thought Rodman did not understand; he thought he himself understood it better. The monk was plunging Rodman, to a high virtue, in the lapse of which something awful was sure to happen.

Giovanni wrote a letter to the State Department when he learned what had happened to Rodman. The State Department turned it over to the court of the trial. I think it was one of the things that influenced the judge in his decision. Still, at the time, there seemed no other reasonable decision to make.

"The testimony must have appeared incredible; it must have appeared fantastic. No man reading the record could have come to any other conclusion about it. Yet it seemed impossible—least, it seemed impossible for me—to consider this great vital bulk of a man as a monk of one of the oldest religious orders in the world."

Every common, academic conception of such a monk he distinctly negated. He impressed me, instead, as possessing the ultimate qualities of a diplomat—the subtle ambassador of some new Oriental power, shrewd, suave, accomplished.

When one read the yellow-backed court-record, the sense of old, phantasmic, mysterious agencies moving in sinister menace, invisibly, around Rodman could not be escaped from. You believed in it. Against your reason, against all modern experience of life, you believed it.

There was one man in the world that everybody wished could have been present at the time. That was Monsieur Jonquelle. Jonquelle was chief of the Criminal Investigation Department of the Service de la Surete in Paris. He had been in charge of the French secret service on the frontier of the Shan states, and at the time he was in Asia.

Another installment of the unusual mystery story will appear in our next issue.

Attribute Woman's Death to Mystery Letter She Received

Butte, Mont., Jan. 19.—Mrs. Eugene Truacy, 29 years old, committed suicide Friday afternoon by swallowing poison, her action being attributed to terror over receipt of a blackmail letter. Her husband informed the authorities that his wife had received a threatening letter last summer and had told him that it was of the kind came to her; she would take her own life; he said that she refused to tell him what was in the letter, except that it was an attempt to break up their home.

RESCUES SISTER BUT PERISHES IN FLAMES
COOPER, Texas, Jan. 18.—A. S. Harper, 37, died in flames here last night, after he had rescued an invalid sister.

Harper brought his sister from the burning house and rushed back into it apparently intent on saving valuables. His charred body was found in the ruins.

Nearly 12,000,000 Buddhists live in the thing came about reads like a fable,
